This book has been produced to make teaching material conveniently available to our members who meet together to learn and play at the Monday night slow session - and it will be distributed for no profit. You are free to reproduce it for no profit so long as you retain the acknowledgement its sources.

Every effort has been made to check the source of tunes in the book and ensure that they are in the public domain. If we have breached copyright by using any of these tunes, our apologies. Please inform us and we will remedy the situation.

This is an early edition so there are bound to be a number of mistakes and editing tasks still to be done. (The chords in particular require a lot of work.) If you could please draw any changes required to our attention and provide your feedback and suggestions then we will be able to improve subsequent editions.

This book is dedicated to all those musicians who have - knowingly or unknowingly - but always freely and enthusiastically - shared their music with us at sessions, workshops and over the net.

*"Take something you love, tell people about it, bring together people who share your love and help make it better.
Ultimately, you'll have more of whatever you love for yourself and for the world." Julius Schwartz*
